

Dear Sister,

To start with, thank u would be an understatement. I know what it takes to care for someone, for family. And u, first of all, are the most unexpected gift I could ever get.

I remember when we first became friends, you were there for me, always. I know u are quite irritating and useless but still u know what, u are someone who is the closest to my heart. Be it my daily mood swings, or my first break up, it's u who handled everything so calmly.

Across a crowded room, just looking into ur eyes, I can tell what did upset u.

Between all the 'u're adopted' jokes u make, I'm so glad u're not adopted.

I would never want to admit, but deep down, your pranks still scare me sometimes. Though u're the sister I didn't get to choose, u surely are the best friend I did get to choose.

3am secrets were always our kind of thing. And my every birthday started with ur special 12am wish. Sending u pictures of pizza especially when u texted me, that u were hungry as hell, has always been my favourite thing. Remember those funny comments which we flooded on each others best pictures? It always covered our face with a broad smile. I'm indeed lucky to have you in every phase of my life. Does it sound like I am actually describing someone perfect? No, u are also a headache to my life. To make it clear, we have our rants, but the bottom line still goes as, no matter how lame ur when it comes to cracking of jokes , or be it ur fast song has u continuing it with wrong lyrics and every slow one has u cribbing about it being too lovey-dovey ,or ur laziness ur my sis. The best anyone can dream of .

Thank you for being the best gossip monger, stalker and basically a partner in everything. And no matter where we both will be after a few years, you'll always, always have a special place in my heart and life.....

Yours,

So called "idiot"..

@harshavardhanbajoria

@unscripted__feelings